

In addition to our robust employment litigation defense practice, Delfino Madden litigation attorneys represent business clients on either side of legal disputes involving contracts, corporate governance, real estate, business torts (such as trade secrets, unfair competition and breach of fiduciary duty), accessibility under the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Rehabilitation Act, and California laws (applicable to websites, physical barriers, service animals, auxiliary aids and services), constitutional law (including defamation, anti-SLAPP, and Section 1983) and public entity liability. Our business and commercial litigation experience extends from complex and class action litigation to actions for declaratory and injunctive relief.

Our business litigation attorneys utilize informed analysis and sophisticated problem-solving skills to advance our clients' goals in the most efficient manner possible. They are experienced and well-versed in e-discovery and litigation holds to put our clients in the best position to prosecute and defend any action. Our litigation attorneys represent clients in trials, hearings, arbitrations, mediations and appeals. We are experienced litigators at all levels and are licensed to practice in state and federal courts throughout California. We also appear before state and local administrative agencies.

When clients experience unfair results at the trial court level, we have successfully moved to overturn trial court decisions at the appellate level through civil appeals and writs.
